RCC Foundation announces new board member

The Rogue Community College Foundation announces the appointment of Bonnie Evans to its board of directors.

Evans is a client manager and consultant for Intrepid Learning, a company based in Seattle that provides technology-enabled learning solutions and strategic learning services. She previously worked for S.C. Johnson & Son for over 15 years, leading teams in learning technologies, training and development and manufacturing operations. She brings a background in training facilitation, project management and manager curriculum and facilitation to the foundation.

Evans, who has lived in southern Oregon for a year, was a member of the Gateway (Wisc.) Technical College Foundation Board for more than six years. She served on the executive committee as vice president for one year and chairperson for two years. She worked with the foundation executive director and college president to develop partnerships between the community, college and foundation.

“Bonnie brings not only a wealth of experience and knowledge to the foundation board but a tremendous amount of energy and intellect,” said Jennifer Wheatley, RCC Foundation executive director. “When Bonnie moved to the area, she contacted us to see if she could become involved with the college and foundation, and of course we were thrilled. She is a wonderful addition to our board team.”

The RCC Foundation supports the college by awarding student scholarships and direct project grants in Josephine and Jackson counties. The private, non-profit foundation accepts tax-deductible gifts and bequests and currently manages numerous endowments. More information is available at 541-956-7327 or www.rccfoundation.org.
