Happy Spring Break, Y'all!

We know this quick break is going to fly by, so we wanted to be sure that you took a moment for yourselves to...breathe.

We've been saying it in many ways, from many different directions: self care is incredibly important. As we enter the final term of the academic year, let's take a moment to really recharge our batteries and honor the work that we've done up to now. We're all warriors!! And we've got 1 more to go!!

1

TAKE A HIKE

Hiking will forever be on this list. It saved my life. Ask me how.
-Marina.

2

FLOAT THE RIVER

I mean, hello?
It's right there.

3

THROW A DISC

Okay. This is seriously the most fun you can have without being athletic. Disc golf.

The April Meeting will have G.I.F.T.'s!!

Amy Durst will show us Zoom tech tips.

Marina Whitchurch will show us Zoom performance tips.

Faculty Senate Award Nominations To Return After Spring Break!

The Sub-Committee is excited to bring this back after a years hiatus.

Among the many things COVID took away from us, we can add “honoring our colleagues” to that list. So recently the Faculty Senate decided it was high time to bring back the Faculty Senate Awards!

After Spring Break, you’ll begin to see web forms and announcements with ways that you can nominate your favorite, admired, and most cool colleagues from a list of titles.

The sub-committee is working with our web personnel to get this list out to you by the time we return.

They will then compile this information and towards the end of spring term, we will have a luncheon (to be determined/announced) where we will honor our honorees. Please stay tuned for more information!

“It was high time we bring back the Faculty Senate Awards!”

VACCINES...

On February 26, 2021, Cathy Kemper-Pelle sent out a very detailed email titled “Things You Should Know: Higher Education Vaccines Scheduled”. This email contained 2 attachments from OHA and OHA-HECC outlining vaccinations and standards as they pertain to higher education and its employees. Wendy Jones, Risk Management Coordinator, sent out an email on March 2, 2021 titled “COVID-19 Vaccine Update”. And then Cathy Kemper-Pelle followed that up with an informative email on March 18, 2021 titled “Things You Should Know: Vaccination Update”. All of this is to say...please read your emails. Being informed is being empowered. And being in this case it’s also being safe. We want to be back together in the fall...let’s make it happen, together!
